

Therapeutic Listening

Richmond NSW

April 28-29, 2019

With Sheila Frick and Lynette Burke

Listening with the Whole Body

Listening plays a vital role in the sensory integration process. In fact, some believe that the auditory system is the 'missing link' in sensory integration modalities. Both research* and clinical experience have shown that using sound-based interventions for clients with sensory processing difficulties can increase treatment effectiveness.

In this newly revised course, you will learn to use Therapeutic Listening: modulated audio selections (available on CDs, digital music players, and some mobile devices) to create individualized, home-based programs for clients. This course will provide a strong emphasis on practical application and explore the use of Therapeutic Listening within the context of multiple case studies. You will also learn how to implement Therapeutic Listening strategies in conjunction with postural, respiratory, and sensory activities. The course will take you through all of the steps—from assessment to outcomes—for creating complete Therapeutic Listening programs. Video case presentations will be used to illustrate points and show changes in individuals with listening and other sensory processing difficulties, including Autism, Cerebral Palsy, apraxia, anxiety, and Down’s syndrome. This course will be especially meaningful for practitioners who have a background in sensory integration, including therapists in schools, hospitals, and private clinics. Participants will gain the necessary background information to begin using Therapeutic Listening right away.

OBJECTIVES:

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

- Develop the relationship between listening and sensory integration.
- Identify individuals with sensory processing and listening difficulties who may respond well to Therapeutic Listening.
- Create Therapeutic Listening programs that are adapted to meet specific needs of individual clients.
- Demonstrate understanding of the role of postural, respiratory, and sensory strategies that are part of the Therapeutic Listening program.

CERTIFICATION:

Participants will receive a Certification in Therapeutic Listening (Introductory). This course provides participants with the necessary background information to immediately begin incorporating Therapeutic Listening into their programs.
